

The Vexatious Issue.
The Maine legislature is neither close nor doubtful. Its senate contains 21 democrats to 19 republicans, while the house presents 88 democrats to 63 republicans. Maine's liquor policy is certainly scheduled for a radical revision. If successfully done, it should remove from politics a chronically vexatious issue.—Boston Transcript.

White Slave Story Affects Westerly

Checked Career of Marie Costanzo, Only 18—New Wheel Company Incorporated—Prizes for School Pupils—Joseph S. Grills Arrested on Connecticut Soil, Charged with Obtaining Money Under False Pretences

Marie Costanzo, who disappeared from her home in Westerly, about a year ago, with a young man to her parents unknown, has been leading a life of shame, and after being roughly handled and slashed with a knife, is now anxious to return to her home. She is now in Lawrence, Mass., and is held as the principal witness against Eugene Armano, who is held for the grand jury bonds of $10,000, as the alleged slayer of Miss Costanzo, charged with assault with intent to kill. The assault occurred in Elm street, Lawrence, when it is alleged that Armano attacked her with a knife because she declared she was to have her immoral practices for his benefit. There was an additional charge filed against Armano, that of enticing and inducing a girl for immoral purposes. Both Miss Costanzo and Armano are to testify in the trial of Michael Anelliotti and Maria Piarro, charged with keeping a house of ill-fame.

Upon recommendation of the trial judge, the charge against Armano was changed from assault with intent to kill to assault with intent to maim. After an inquiry into the slaying case Joseph Cassala, who pleaded guilty to a charge of lewdness, was held for sentence in connection with the Armano case, the police expecting to prove that he was a caper in connection with the white slave traffic that has secured a foothold in Lawrence.

Miss Costanzo is about eighteen years of age and of attractive appearance. She stated that she met Armano in Portland, Me., and that they were married and took up their residence in a house in Elm street that was conducted by a fellow known as "Jimmie." Here she led an immoral life. The money she received was given by "Jimmie" to Armano, the latter furnishing himself with clothing and gambling the rest. When she complained to Armano of being sick, he had her operated upon for appendicitis in a Portland hospital a few weeks before she met him, and asked him to take her to her home in Westerly, where her parents reside, he finally refused. They had a few words just outside of the house and Armano, she alleged, took a knife from his pocket and slashed her across the face. Armano stated in court that he did not use Marie Costanzo for immoral purposes and she went to Lawrence, living with her father, who had been living with her. She went to Lawrence and he acknowledged that he was supported by the money he received from "Jimmie." He did not believe Marie when she said she wanted to go to her home in Westerly, but felt sure she wanted to go back to her father. Arquette, who had previously sold the girl for $8.

It is believed in Lawrence that as a result of the trouble between Miss Costanzo and Armano, there will be exposure of the existence of white slave traffic in that city. Shortly before Miss Costanzo disappeared from Westerly, she filed a young lover from Niantic. He had visited the Costanzo home and when he departed for Niantic he was quite dependent. Soon after the train left Westerly, the young man discharged a revolver, it was said at the time, with suicidal intent. The bullet went through the flesh of his right thigh and the car sped. The young man was not seriously wounded. It was only a few days after this occurrence that Miss Costanzo went away from her home with some other young man.

The Dual Tired Wheel company of Westerly has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, with three incorporators: Herbert L. Stillman of Westerly, Frank Hill and George B. Carpenter of Ashaway. Samuel H. Davis of Westerly.

The purpose of the corporation will be the manufacture of automobile and other vehicle wheels, and for the purchasing, selling and leasing patents relating to vehicle wheels. The capital stock is placed at $10,000 to be divided into shares of the par value $1, and the stock is to be all common.

John Monti, eighth grade, Elm street school, Westerly, was first prize winner in the School Arts guild contest, the awards of which have just been announced. Martin Randall of the same school, is one of the five second prize winners. Leon W. Saunders of the Niantic school is among the ten who were awarded third prizes. Howard Stillman, also of the Elm street school, was a fourth prize winner. Mrs. Costanzo, Irene Glides and Roy Wilcox received honorable mention.

Joseph S. Grills of Westerly, who conducted a sort of banking business for his Italian countrymen, and who was arrested on a charge of embezzlement about a year ago, is now in the toils of the courts of Connecticut as well as in Rhode Island. Several weeks ago John Bellino swore out a warrant for the arrest of Grills, complaining that he deposited with Grills $200 on October 15, 1908, under the understanding that Grills was to bank under the laws of Rhode Island. Subsequently he became suspicious and demanded his money of Grills, but could not get it. He now charges Grills with obtaining money under false pretences.

Warrant of Grills was placed with Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey of Pawcatuck, who has visited the Pawcatuck river from Rhode Island to Connecticut, in order to save the time of the extradition proceedings. Mr. Grills, who was arrested in Pawcatuck Friday night and was taken into custody by Sheriff Casey. Shortly after he was given over to Police man James Gaffney and taken to New London. He was arraigned in the police court of that city Saturday morning and pleaded not guilty. Hearing was continued to Monday morning and he furnished a bond of $1,000 for his appearance.

When Grills was arrested about a year ago it was upon the complaint of the New Londoners who claimed they had deposited $12,000 with Grills to be forwarded to the Bank of Rome. Grills declared that he had forwarded the money as directed, but it was subsequently learned that the Bank of Rome had not received any money from Grills, and that he was not known as an agent of the bank. Grills has been indicted by the grand jury of the superior court for Washington county, several months ago, and is on bonds to appear for trial at the session of the court which convenes this week.

On the very first day of his hearing in the Third district court in Westerly, he caused the arrest of a young New London Italian for slander. This young fellow was interested in the prosecution of Grills. Soon Grills caused the arrest of the two men who had filed complaint against him, charging them with perjury. The men were confined in Kingston jail for a week, being unable to furnish bonds for trial in the lower court, but their cases were dropped by Grills, and his accusers were thoroughly scared.

Mr. Grills has been a resident of

Westerly for many years and was once considered a leader among his countrymen, a citizen of good standing. It was claimed that he did a banking business, received deposits and paid interest, but that he made unprofitable investments and lost the money he had received.

The superior court for Washington county will convene at Kingston today (Monday). The grand jury will have under consideration the wood alcohol poisoning cases of Cleo and Edmond of Westerly and several local liquor nuisance cases, besides the Grills embezzlement.

The clerk of the superior court for Providence county has received nineteen applications for admission to the Rhode Island bar, and the examinations will be held Tuesday. The only applicant from Westerly is Louis A. Pavetto, student in the office of Augustine T. L. Ledwidge.

William L. Clark of Westerly, president of the Rhode Island Golf association, spent last week at the national tournament in Brookline, Mass., making good play, and witnessed Warren Kenneth Wood of Chicago defeated for the national amateur championship by William Clark Fowles, Jr., of Pittsburgh by a summary of four up and three to play.

Mr. Clark was invited on the Rhode Island team in the contest with this Connecticut state golf team at the Asawam Hunt Saturday, but could not accept on account of his management at Brookline. The nearest golfers were the viciets 2-13 and 1-12.

In the speaking contest at the Kingston fair on Children's day first honors went to Miss Bertha Congdon of South Kingston, High school, subject, "Two Patrias." Second honors went to Miss Annie Albert of Westerly High school, subject, "Commencement." The other winners were Miss Anne Packham and Miss Theresa E. Doherty, both of the Westerly High school. Miss Margaret Andrews of Carolina won in the spelling contest.

A crippled team from Westerly went to Wakefield Saturday and played a game in the Rhode Island-Connecticut league series and met defeat by a score of 4 to 1. With Mystic stationary, by reason of the failure of White Rock to play the scheduled game, Westerly still leads in the contest for the championship. The scores by innings:

Wakefield 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 1 4
Westerly 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 6 1
Two base hits, Eaton, Noyes; three base hits, Rouse. Home runs, Cavley; stolen bases, Mitchell; first base on balls, Quinn 3; struck out, by Quinn 2; by Robinson 3; double plays, C. Wilbur to L. Wilbur to Eaton; wild pitches, Robinson; hit by pitched ball, by Quinn 1; time, 1:25; umpire, Shackley.

That was a bang-up game of baseball played at Stonington, the opposing team being the Stonington team. One in the third after Carolina had turned the same trick in the second. Ten innings were played, but there was no more scoring and the game was called by reason of darkness. Score by innings:

Runs earned, Stonington 1, Carolina 1; two base hits, Burdick, Gavitt; sacrifice hits, Reiser, Doll, Brown, Wells; stolen bases, Reiser, Doll, Sullivan, Fryer, Wells, Cavaynagh 2; first base on balls, Burdick 4, Reiser 2; first base on errors, Carolina 2; left on bases, Stonington 7, Carolina 7; struck out, Burdick 11, Rhodes 2; double plays, Sullivan to Robertson to Sullivan, Sullivan to Fryer; wild pitches, Rhodes; hit by pitched ball, Robertson, Spencer; time, 1:49; umpire, Moriarty; attendance, 260.

The League standing is as follows:

Antonio Vacca reported to the police Sunday that his sister Rosa had eloped with Raffaele Morelli, aged 36, who is said to have a wife in Italy.

At the Kingston fair, first prizes were awarded George L. Stillman of Westerly for decorative, snow and fancy, cactus, pompon and single daisies.

The railroad baggage station at Watch Hill was closed for the season last week. At 5,000 pounds of baggage were packed and carried between Stonington and Watch Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gardiner of Watch Hill were in Watch Hill Sunday. Mr. Gardiner formerly resided in Westerly and it was his first visit to the Hill in forty years.

Righteous members of the Providence Motorcade Club passed through Westerly Sunday on an endurance run from Providence to Groton, Ferry landing and return. They were cheered by Frank Curran at the Broad street bridge.

A Pawcatuck young man was arrested in Westerly Saturday for intoxication, and while arraigned as a common drunkard. For twelve years he had been a total abstainer, but fell from grace and has been drunk frequently for several weeks. Sentence was suspended to give him opportunity to reform.

The Danger of Imitations.

An Ohio druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. His experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine. If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for Children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.
